

MRS. EADY'S NEW RULING.
Will Eliminate Segregation of Sexes in Church and Societies.
NEW YORK, May 13.—Mary Baker Eddy, head of the Church of Christ, Scientist, is said to have promulgated an amendment to the constitution of the church against the segregation of the sexes in clubs. As most of the church members are also members of clubs and associations founded on principles that preclude the association of men and women, they are said to be greatly puzzled over the enforcement of the edict. Members of the Masonic fraternity are understood to be exempt from the ruling, but many other secret societies are affected.

PEERS' LOYALTY TO THE MACHINE ON EXCISE BILL

Former State Senator Declares that United States Senator Stone Asked Him to Let the Big Fees of His Office Remain Intact.

THE ALUM STATESMAN GOT $500 PER MONTH OF IT.

Candidate for St. Louis Court of Appeals Says He Finally Voted for a Fellow Servant Bill, but Record Doesn't Reveal It.

EX-STATE SENATOR PEERS ON EXCISE OFFICE FEES.
Regarding my connection with the defeat of a bill to reduce the fees of the ex-cisecommisioner of St. Louis, which bill was before the Missouri Legislature in 1897, I desire to make this statement:

While at Jefferson City, I received a telegram from ex-governor, now senator, Stone one day asking me to call upon him at my earliest convenience. He was stopping at the time in St. Louis at the West End Hotel. I went to St. Louis at once and upon arriving at the hotel was ushered into Mr. Stone's room.

The first thing he asked was if I had any interest in the defeat or passage of the ex-cisecommisioner's bill. I answered that as the bill did not affect my constituents in any way, I cared nothing about it. The ex-governor then spoke up and said:

"The ex-cisecommisioner's office is a very convenient place to get subscriptions for the campaign fund of the Democratic party. Unless you have some reason to vote for the repeal of this law I think you had better leave the law as it is."

Those were Stone's exact words. I think he rode to Jefferson City that night and on the way he broached the subject to me again. I answered him repeatedly that I cared nothing about the matter one way or the other, and said:

"Governor, if you prefer that it (meaning the ex-cisecommisioner bill) remain this way, as a political matter, I have no objection. Nothing was done with the bill at that session. (Signed.) C. E. PEERS.

When former State Senator Charles E. Peers, attorney of the Wabash Railroad Co., at Warrenton, Mo., and the special advocate of railroad interests in two sessions of the state legislature, who is now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, was asked by the Post-Dispatch to explain his connection with the defeat of legislation calculated to put the ex-cisecommisioner's office upon a reasonable salary basis, he dictated the foregoing statement, and, as he submitted it for publication, said:

"I do not see any harm in a political party making capital out of public offices. By that I mean to say that anything the ex-cisecommisioner can turn over to the campaign funds is a legitimate contribution."

"Upon what ground do you consider yourself entitled to the judicial nomination?" Mr. Peers was asked.

"I think the nomination should come to me because of the service I have rendered to the Democratic party. I have been in the harness 30 years and my friends think it is about time to recognize my worth."

"In season and out of season I have worked for the advancement of the Democratic party, and many of Mr. Folk's best friends desire me to serve as chairman of the Democratic state convention."

"I called to preside at that convention I certainly shall be pleased to accept the honor."

"Do you consider your record as an ally of the railroad lobby in the legislature a merit mark for the Democracy?" "I consider my legislative record all right. I read the article in the Post-Dispatch of Wednesday criticizing my official record. The Post-Dispatch finds fault with me because I believed a general fellow servant law should have been enacted. The publication is entirely true so far as it goes, and there is nothing in the article that reflects discredit upon me when all the facts are considered."

ment is interesting on account of the additional light it sheds on the lobby record of Senator William J. Stone. When Senator Stone asked Peers to 'sup-press' the ex-cisecommisioner bill he (Stone) was receiving from the incumbent of the office fees amounting to $500 a month. When the legislative committee Lexowed

St. Louis in 1899 Stone swore on the witness stand that he received this pay for representing Ex-cisecommisioner Higgins in a legal capacity. He could not cite any particular case in which he appeared but said he had handled many representations. At that time the ex-cisecommisioner's income amounted to $5,000 a year. Peers' statement indicates at least one of the reasons why Higgins paid Stone large fees to protect his interests.

Rev. John Snyder a Playwright.
A dispatch from Wellesley, Mass., states that Rev. John Snyder of the Wellesley Hills Unitarian Church, formerly pastor of the Church of the Messiah in St. Louis, has signed a contract to write a play for Grace George, wife of William A. Brady. Rev. Mr. Snyder has also sold to Mr. Brady a play entitled "Cape Cod Folks," which he started to write several years ago for Rolfe Russell, who died before its completion. Robert Lorraine, a young English actor, will appear in this play next season.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHESTER, Pa., May 12.—Ernest A. Roeder, a young man of Colwyn, has received a check for $45,000 from the estate of Mrs. Martha Dobbs of Pittsburgh, who left him this amount because he saved her life in a runaway accident fifteen years ago. Besides the bequest, Roeder also received, some days ago, a draft for $10,000 additional from Mrs. Dobbs' daughter, Mrs. Hinson. Roeder, who was conducting a meat market, has sold out and will live on his money. He said when seen to-day that the only thing he wants is to find a wife to share his fortune. Already he has received 300 proposals, but none of them suits him.

MOTHER SPEAKS AGAINST SON IN GILLESPIE CASE

Aged Parent of the Defendant Is the First Witness for the Prosecution and Tells Story of Her Daughter's Murder.

JURY FINALLY SECURED THOUGH VENIREMEN FLED.

The Prisoner Shows His Ill-Temper by Hurling a Rock at a Photographer Trying to Make Picture of Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
RISING SUN, Ind., May 12.—The jury for the trial of James Gillespie for the murder of his twin sister has been completed despite the fact that some of the veniremen fled on learning their names had been drawn and the hearing of evidence was begun this morning, after the prosecution made its statement.

The first act of the jury on its completion was to visit the scene of the tragedy and to inspect the window through which the assassin of Elizabeth Gillespie fled. The first witness was Mrs. Margaret Gillespie, mother of the victim and of two of the defendants. The prosecution states that her testimony would suit better along in the trial, but in deference to her age and feebleness she was put on the list first.

Mother Tells the Story of the Crime.

Mrs. Gillespie told how her daughter was shot while she was arranging the parlor of their home for a reception. There was no warning. The assassin slipped up to the window in the darkness and fired his weapon.

The brother did not visit his sister while she lay dying for three days and did not attend the funeral.

Mrs. Gillespie described the origin of the feud between the brother and the sister which grew out of her preference in her will of the daughter over the son and which caused the son to leave home.

The aged woman was greatly distressed during the examination and the proceedings were suspended frequently while she wept. James Gillespie and those relatives who have been indicted with him sat through her testimony, apparently unmoved though greatly interested.

Rising Sun is one of the most beautiful towns on the banks of the Ohio river. The weather today was ideal. Judge Downey is a believer in hard work during short hours. He convenes court at 9 and adjourns at 4:30.

Lawyers Enjoy Outdoor Sports During Recess.

Dignified lawyers, newspaper men and artists rushed from the courtroom like boys from a schoolroom on a spring afternoon. Some of them were playing ball. Among the ball players was Henry N. Spaulding, who struck out one-two-three, but in deference of his lack of practice on the ball field he was permitted five strikes before being put out.

Dr. Thad A. Reamy of Cincinnati, the rich uncle of Mrs. Harbours, arrived this afternoon. He drove up in front of the courthouse just as court adjourned. Mr. and Mrs. Harbours had started down the street, but soon the presence of the uncle of their relative, Dr. Reamy threw his arms around Mrs. Harbours and kissed her. He said, "Charlie, you don't look like a criminal."

Mrs. Harbours replied: "No, uncle, they are on the wrong track this time." She inquired, "Don't you think I look better than I did?"

He assured her that he did and threw his arm around his niece and the other around Harbours and held them close to him while he talked to them. Dr. Reamy employs She Thomas F. Shaw as an attorney for his niece. It is said Shaw's fee will be $100.

James Gillespie gave another exhibition of his temper yesterday afternoon. Shortly after adjournment of court when the sheriff was taking him across the courtyard, "Jim" saw a camera leveled at him. Quick as a flash he grabbed a stone and turned to throw it at the photographer, but the latter made a hasty retreat and escaped injury.

Study of the Accused Persons.
Gillespie was hurried into the jail, all the time tugging at the sheriff and scowling at the large crowd which witnessed the affair. A camera to Gillespie is like a red rag to a bull. Gillespie is 31 years old and unmarried. He seems to be a strange mixture of good and bad. He is a foreigner, has small blue eyes, deeply set, rather heavy jaws and small, receding chin. He is well built, somewhat above the medium height and walks with a quick, springing step. Mrs. Harbours' features are finely modeled and regular, with dark blue eyes, shaded by black lashes and black hair. But her face is pinched and wan. Occasionally she smiles, but there is no laughter in her smile, only a pathetic forced merriment. At times she sits with her face bowed, apparently in deep thought, but brightens and smiles at the remarks of her attorney or friends. Mrs. Harbours' hands are small and white, with tapering fingers. Mrs. Belle Seward, a sister of the murdered woman, and also of the man accused, appeared in the courtroom dressing in deep mourning. Her husband died a few years ago. She has one son, Charlie, about 25 years old, who never leaves her side in the courtroom. Mrs. Seward is a fine appearing woman and a blonde, a direct contrast to Mrs. Harbours, the other woman indicted with her. To an observer her features would indicate a more forceful character than Mrs. Harbours. She seems the embodiment of grief. If Myron Harbours' face was chiseled out of marble he could not look any more miserable than he does, as he sits beside his wife in the courtroom. With his jet black hair, eyes and mustache, the contrast is more marked. He frequently elevates his eyebrows as though trying to suppress some strong mental emotion. His slight physique, nervous temperament, and has a refined, innocent looking face, much more mature lines of care. His devotion to his wife borders almost on the sublime and it is believed he is that type of man who would not hesitate to sacrifice himself in order to save her.

MARY ANDERSON IS FIRM

The Accomplished Actress Declines to Return to Stage Even on Personal Appeal.

LONDON, May 12.—Mary Anderson, known in private life as Mrs. Antonio Navarro, has declined a most flattering offer to return to the stage. The offer was not alone one for great profit, but was accompanied by a beautiful memorial from her many friends and admirers. Mrs. Navarro considered the offer four days before answering finally.

An invitation to tour the United States was conveyed to her by J. W. Morrissey on behalf of Nelson Roberts. It was supported by a memorial, beautifully engraved on parchment, which was signed by 25 prominent Americans, including Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Farley, Bishop Potter, Senator and Mrs. Depew, Gen. and Mrs. Miles, V. K. Vanderbilt, Mayor McCallan, George Gould and Russell Sage. It was proposed that she embody readings from the poets, principally Shakespeare, Tennyson and Longfellow, in her program, the formation of which was left to herself. It was stated that part of the gross receipts would be devoted to charity. Mrs. Morrissey guaranteed her $150,000. Mrs. Navarro took four days to consider the matter, then wrote a graceful letter, acknowledging the honor and expressing her sincere thanks for it. But added: "I am compelled by conviction not to deviate from the resolution I made 15 years ago not to enter again the rush and excitement of public life."

It has cured diarrhea for 25 years. Wakefield's Blackberry Balsam.

Portland Factories Burned.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 12.—An explosion of saw dust in the furnace of the Day Lumber Company's mill started a fire just before midnight which destroyed that mill, and also those of the Multnomah Trunk and Box factory and the Ira F. Appeal to Supreme Court Acts as Stay of Execution.

In his closely guarded cell in the St. Louis Jail "Rufus" Rudolph, convicted of murder in the first degree in the killing of Detective Charles J. Schumacher, is spending the day set for his execution at Union.

An appeal to the Supreme Court by his attorneys acted as a stay of Rudolph's execution, and as the appeal will not be considered until the October term, Rudolph may not be hanged this year. Rudolph is confined in the strongest cell in the jail, and every precaution is taken to prevent a repetition of his sensational escape of last July.

Uncle Eb's Philosophy.

"LIFE EZ I KNOWS IT."

BY EMBREZZER HEEZEKIAH HOLDEN.

THE man who is a professor of athletes and tells others how to live a hundred years usually dies at thirty-five of heart failure. I never saw no sense in this physical culture, no-how. The farmer or the carpenter or the blacksmith lives to be ninety, uses his brain considerable, too, and don't think about his stomach or his muscles all the time. I know a hull lot of people that always think about their stomachs. It's them that tell me if I stop eating meat and good wholesome victuals and take up with some new fangled bran-mash sanitary food I'd live to be a hundred in the shade, and the next day I get an invitation from the family to come to the funeral. That party that told me how to take care of my stomach died of catarrh of the stomach. That was all that saved his family, for he was teaching the whole family to live on bran-mash and cereals, or whatever you call 'em, and the family were slowly wasting away. Men who try to get too strong, I notice, usually eat too much and die of heart failure. The man who works his brain and his body just enough to keep in balance, usually attends the funeral of the other fellow. There's common sense in all things. Now, when I don't know what's best to do, I just sit it down and read my book. That book is worth more than a whole library of novels—it's the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser', and written by that Dr. Pierce, in Buffalo, N. Y., who founded the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute there. There isn't no nonsense about him. Say—he wrote me the other day and says—he there ain't nothin' the matter with you, Ebenezer—nothin' but old age, and if you go on livin' the same simple life you ailaas has, you'll live to spank the other feller's great-grand children. You see, when I get bilious, I just take one of them 'Pleasant Pellets' of Doctor Pierce; they set me right and save me a whole lot of sickness. I don't get no microbes—for why—kase I just haven't any weak spots. My organs is all active—I keep 'em so. Once I had a fit of sickness; my stomach was all out of order, and so my blood got pizened. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he told me not to eat so much fried pork and bacon and flapjacks, and then I took his vegetable extract and alterative, the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' That's the finest tonic for the stomach I ever heard of; it ain't no cocktail, either, for it aint got a particle of alcohol in it, but is just made from roots and 'erbs—a sort of nature's tonic—and say—it just throws out all those poisons that accumulate in your system during the winter, and puts you straight, and makes you as lively as a cricket. All of Dr. Pierce's family remedies are good, 'cause they're made from

MIDGETS' AND THEIR GUESTS

Freed Slave Girl and Tribal Datto Who Is to Wed Her Laugh at Juan and Maritana de la Cruz, Who Eat With Knife and Fork.

There were social doings in the Philippine court at the World's Fair Friday. Juan and Maritana de la Cruz, the Philippine midgets, gave a pre-nuptial dinner to Datto Assum and Courcyon Songallali, his prospective bride, both of the Lake Lanao district, Datto Feundo, the Zamboanga swell, and Mrs. Leganani, and Sultan Petilian.

As has been told in the Post-Dispatch, Courcyon, who has been a slave all her life, has just been set free by Sultan Petilian in response to the pleadings of Datto Assum, in order that she may become the datto's wife.

As soon as Juan and Maritana heard of the romance over in the Moro end of the court, they decided to give a function in honor of the datto and his sweetheart, and as the road the young man had traveled was soon to the world's civilization.

LOCKUP FOR HELEN GOULD'S SUITOR

Charles Yost Took a Box of Candy and Went to Tarrytown for Wedding.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 12.—"You are shaking the hand of the man who is going to marry Helen Gould," said a dapper-looking young fellow, as he greeted Chief of Police Helke at Tarrytown depot, waiting from the midnight train on Wednesday.

"Yes, that's me," he continued. "See this box? That's candy. That's for Helen. Congratulate me."

The chief was interested and led him on. "Yes, we are going to be married tomorrow. I don't know where she lives, but you look like a good-natured man, and I am sure you will show me the way."

The chief said he would be delighted and started out. On the road the young man entertained him with his story of how he had fallen in love with Miss Gould, who, he said, was a very beautiful girl.

"Here is Miss Gould's house," said the chief, drawing up in front of the police station.

The young man was disappointed at the solution of the problem. Inside the house he was a prisoner, and he took the matter philosophically. He said he was Charles C. Yost of Philadelphia. He was well dressed and wore several diamonds.

Yesterday morning he was arraigned in the Police Court, and on the promise to forget that he was to marry Helen Gould, he was permitted to go home. The police saw him on a train in Jersey City.

YOUNGER MINISTERS WIN.

Selection of Two Bishops Voted by A. M. E. Zion Conference.

The younger element of the negro ministers in attendance at the A. M. E. Zion conference have won a victory over the older and more conservative members of the conference. By a vote of 179 to 115 the younger men carried the expansion and extension policy, including the selection of two bishops instead of one.

The men were led by Rev. E. D. W. Jones of St. Louis, while Prof. W. H. Goler of Livingston College headed the conservatives. Bishop H. M. Turner addressed the conference Thursday night, declaring the only solution of the problem was emigration to Africa. He said the negro had been in this country since the time of Noah, and that it was the duty of the negro to return to his original home.

ADOPTS YOUTH, THEN MARRIES HIM

Miss Myrtle Thime, Aged 18, Becomes Legal Parent of Fiance, Aged 20, to Secure License.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LESURE, Minn., May 12.—The marriage of Miss Myrtle Thime and Albert Grayland occurred today. The groom is only 20 years old and consequently was unable to obtain a license without the consent of his parents or guardian. Being an orphan without a guardian, he was barred all around.

The young woman, though nearly two years younger, was over 18 and of lawful age to get married if she wanted to. Neither wanted to wait for the young man to grow older, so Miss Thime formally and legally adopted her fiance and then, as his guardian, gave the necessary consent so that a marriage license could be issued to him.

The document was then made out and justice of the Peace Hammerly of Sharon Township married the couple.

FOOT PIERCED BY A BULLET.

Night Watchman Meets With Accident While Denning Coat.

William Pelphrey, a night watchman for the American Gas Co. at Tower Grove avenue and the Frisco track, was shot through the foot Friday morning when his revolver fell from the pocket of a coat which he was putting on.

The bullet penetrated the foot and lodged in the sole of the shoe. Pelphrey crawled two blocks to the company's office to reach a telephone. At the door of the office he became too weak to drag himself into the room. A passing milkman helped him and called an ambulance.

Pelphrey lives at 109 South Eleventh street. He is at the City Hospital.

MISSING BOY WAS NOT STOLEN.

Sold Papers a Day and Then Started to Visit Grandmother.

George W. Crist, an 8-year-old boy who disappeared a week ago from his home at 222 Bohne court and was thought to have been snatched away from home, was found last night at Twenty-third and Walnut streets by a policeman. The youngster was hungry and had worn out a pair of shoes in his wanderings. He stated that he had sold papers downtown a day, then took a train toward Peoria to visit his grandmother, but had got no further than De Soto.

HOW ROCKFELLER PLAYS AT GOLF

Has Discarded Boy Caddies and Lures Them to Run Races for His Pleasure.

PREFERS SKILLFUL STROKES

Displays Greatest Patience and Travels Links Like a Boy—Original—ed Barn Door Game.

NEW YORK, May 12.—John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world and an ardent devotee of the game of golf, will have only girl caddies to wait upon him when he is enjoying his favorite exercise. It is said he prefers girls because they are far more willing to attend to his wants than boys are, and are besides more intelligent and quick to perceive what is required of them.

Mr. Rockefeller made the innovation last year. As soon as the news got around everybody was curious to see them. Mr. Rockefeller didn't like this. He despises the curious public, although he does not bar it altogether from his fine private golf grounds. In the mornings, when the Standard Oil Croesus and his girls are on the putting green, none but invited guests are admitted. This does not apply to the boys. They get in somehow.

In the afternoons, when Mr. Rockefeller is in bed, visitors may drive around the grounds at their will. They are even free to pick the wild flowers that abound on the estate. But they must not carry cameras or kodaks. Mr. Rockefeller's detestation of these useful instruments of an effete civilization is more intense than that of J. Pierpont Morgan.

When Mr. Rockefeller comes out of his house, which was formerly the Country Club, the caddy girls are waiting for him. Very often he starts them off with a race from the nearest to the farthest tee. "Now, then, my dears," he says, "10 cents to the girl that reaches the ninth tee first. Are you ready? Go!"

The girls are all between the ages of 8 and 14, the hobble-de-hoy period, when girls look their awkwardest. As they scamper off for the goal and the prize they seem all slender arms and legs. Mr. Rockefeller laughs heartily as he watches them. The caddy boys bowl—from a safe distance. Some of the girls wear cotton sunbonnets and some woolen Tam O'Shanter. They look these aside when they race or carry the bags.

Selects Girls Who Can Keep Secrets.

Like everybody else that draws money from the Rockefeller purse, these girls and their parents are instructed not to answer any questions about the million-dollar affairs. They obey orders. Visitors who drive down from the hotels cannot even find out whether Mr. Rockefeller is at home, much less the hour at which he is likely to make his appearance on the links. A visitor who strolled over the grounds one morning last week just after Mr. Rockefeller had finished his daily constitutional met little Grace Ford, swinging her sunbonnet. Close by Mrs. Ford was digging dandelions.

"Are you one of Mr. Rockefeller's caddy girls?" Grace was asked.

"Yes," she answered briefly.

She might have said more, but Mrs. Ford brandished her dandelion knife and called out:

"And Grace didn't."

"Hush!" said Tommy Flynn, one of Mr. Rockefeller's former caddies, as he is a distinct innovation of Mr. Rockefeller's. It is new this season. "Barn door" golf is not yet a part of contemporary golf literature. On his broad acres at Lakewood Mr. Rockefeller has built a big barn with a very wide door. When the weather is simply misty the good old Scotch-speak variety that his friend and fellow golf enthusiast, Andrew Carnegie, has taught him is the real, real thing. Mr. Rockefeller goes over the course. But when the rain is pouring he opens the barn door wide, swats the bull hard from under shelter and sends it bounding over the green toward the caddies chase the ball and bring it back. They are paid by the hour, just as though they had gone over the links.

A few mornings ago one of the boys caught a girl caddy taking a short cut through the woods to the links instead of going by the road Mr. Rockefeller had built. The boy said the girl across his knee and was spanking her when the girl's cries attracted the attention of Henry, one of the men who work about the place. Henry dropped his pruning knife and chased the boy. He didn't catch him.

Bought Golf Grounds Cheap.

When the Lakewood County Club found the nine-hole course on its original property too small, about two years ago, and decided upon an 18-hole course in a more desirable locality, the old house and grounds were offered for sale. Mr. Rockefeller bought them at a bargain, but his name did not figure in the transaction until after the deal was completed.

He got a fine clubhouse and 500 acres of choice land, including a beautiful kept putting green, for $12,000. George Ford, who was one of the governors of the club at the time. It never occurred to him, or to anybody else, that the Standard Oil magnate wanted to buy the golf property.

Mr. Rockefeller visited his daughter's house on the edge of the golf course, paid an occasional visit at Georgian Court, talked with friends at the notes and in a general way took all the gossip of the change of the club site, but he never intimated that he wanted to buy or even went out to look over the property.

For the last month Mr. Rockefeller has been playing golf on his Lakewood course about five mornings a week. The old clubhouse is closed, except for the servants, and a sleeping room and dining room that are always kept in readiness for Mr. Rockefeller. He does not sleep in the house except in the afternoons. He takes no meal there except a light luncheon. He since, passes the night and breakfasts at the home of his daughter whenever he is at Lakewood.

As Mr. Rockefeller strolls down to the green to meet the girl caddies his step is sprightly and his complexion clear and almost ruddy. It is hard to believe that he is a confirmed dyspeptic. Once on the links he quickly gets down to business. He likes company as a general thing, but in golf he is just as happy when alone as when somebody is playing against him.

Mr. Rockefeller is not fond of the strenuous style of golf. He never can be persuaded to play on an 18-hole course in the company of crack-jacks of the game. He reverts any effort to persuade him to exhibit himself under such circumstances. He never indulges in the free, full swing of the brassy stroke, which true golf players say is such splendid exercise for the chest and lungs. He takes most pleasure in the short strokes that require more skill than force, even at the hands of expert players.

If Mr. Rockefeller does not at first succeed with these teasing strokes he tries again. In golf he is patience personified. That is what makes the boy caddies, who like swift, rapid play, so tired of following him from tee to tee. One caddy told him that golf was not a long-distance walking match.

WOMEN WAR FOR ONE MAN'S LOVE

Wife Sues for Alienation of Affection, the Other for Damages—Big Sums Asked.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Miss Anna R. Cooke today filed the declaration in her suit, charging Mrs. Jeanette Ford, a Kentucky belle, with the alienation of her husband's affections. The principle in Mrs. Cooke's $25,000 alienation suit was filed immediately after Mrs. Ford began her $25,000 damage suit against Edgar T. Cooke of the Central Fire Underwriters' Association, chairman, and husband of the North Side society leader.

Mrs. Ford is charged by Mrs. Cooke with destroying Cooke's affection for his wife through "blandishments and protestations of affection." The Kentucky woman who says Cooke beat her in her apartments at the Sherman House, is charged by Mrs. Cooke with having kept him away from her by threats of poison and violence.

The suits of Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Ford are the instruments in a remarkable war of love over one man. Mrs. Ford, it is charged, filed a damage suit against Cooke and took out warrants for his arrest in order to keep him away from his wife. Mrs. Cooke, in her fight against the Kentucky woman, filed a suit which she hopes will offset Mrs. Ford's suit and allow Cooke to live with his family unmolested.

Mrs. Cooke said tonight: "The Kentucky widow met my husband in Cincinnati in September, 1901. He did not love her. She is mad with infatuation over him. She has followed him all over the United States since. She came here. She hounded him in his office, on the streets, at his club, even inviting him to come to her hotel when he was here. That caused the story of his assaulting her in a State street department store and at the Sherman House. In New York, where he was a stock broker, in June, 1902, Mrs. Ford assaulted my husband and injured him. Despite all these things he is determined to live in Chicago with his family."

"But we want no boudlers in the party. Let them go away out somewhere and start a party of their own; or better still, let them go into the Republican party."

For a few moments the crowd cheered and waved hats and handkerchiefs. Mr. Folk ended his speech with a plea to the Republicans who love their state and the honor of their government above party politics, to come into the Democratic party and help to make the boudlers belt.

For a half hour after he concluded and the meeting ended, Mr. Folk stood upon the platform shaking hands with his admirers.

"LEGISLATOR ACCEPTING PASS WILL BE INDICTED"

—JOSEPH W. FOLK.

St. Louis Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor Makes Strong Statement as to His Position Regarding Boudlers to a Large Kansas City Audience.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 12.—"The first legislator who accepts a railroad pass under my administration, should be indicted," was one pronounced statement of Joseph W. Folk in a campaign address to 10,000 persons in convention hall last night. The audience cheered Mr. Folk's statement. They were mostly enthusiasts, as they had braved a severe rainstorm to attend the meeting. Not once during the address did Mr. Folk refer to the withdrawal of Former Mayor Reed from the contest, which was announced yesterday morning.

Continuing on the pass question, Mr. Folk said: "I consider the railroad pass the worst form of bribery, and it must go. On riding on a railroad, the soul of the legislator is the lobbyist's."

Continuing, he said: "I would give the corporations their rights under the law, but nothing more. I promise you that if I am elected governor, I will drive the lobby out of Jefferson City."

"I propose," continued Mr. Folk, "to take the police out of politics. I propose to stop, if I am elected governor, this 'Indian' business in St. Louis and Kansas City. The police shall be taken out of politics and the voter, be he of what party he may, shall vote as he chooses."

The people have won a great victory. They have taken their party into their own hands. The professional politician must get out. The Democrats who are Democrats for principle are in the saddle and the Democrats who are Democrats for revenue only must take a back seat.

For a few moments the crowd cheered and waved hats and handkerchiefs. Mr. Folk ended his speech with a plea to the Republicans who love their state and the honor of their government above party politics, to come into the Democratic party and help to make the boudlers belt.

Yerington, executive commissioner to the World's Fair from Nevada, officials of the Exposition will go for a ride Saturday morning at 11 o'clock with "Borax Bill" behind his 20-mule team in a prairie schooner. No record of the picturesque language to be used by "Borax Bill" in addressing his mules will be kept save in the memories of such of the party as fail to fill their ears with cotton or wax.

IGORROTE FEAST ORDERED.

Evil Spirits Seen by Mrs. Congo to Be Dispelled.

The Igorrotes will kill a dog and dance a fandango Saturday to drive the evil spirits out of the house of Julio Congo.

Mrs. Julio is "getting up" the event. Mrs. Julio and her husband quarreled a few days ago, and Julio departed from the house of his spouse. He told Dr. Hunt that he left of his own volition. His wife insists that she "tin-canned" him.

Friday morning Mrs. Julio appeared before Dr. Hunt in great distress and prayed a "cane" of her people. A cane is a dog feat and dance. It is a time to dispel devils. These devils have appeared in the house of Mrs. Julio, and Thursday night they shined up and down the walls and cracked jokes across the foot of the bed until Mrs. Julio couldn't get as much sleep as a night watchman. She says she saw the spirits with her own eyes, and that they were big devils. Dr. Hunt granted the prayer of petition, and appointed Saturday for the "cane."

Fined for Robbing Employer.

Henry Shorth, charged with robbing his employer, Henry Shorth, a grocer at 4874 Easton avenue, by whom he was employed as a clerk, was arraigned before Judge Moore in the court of criminal correction Friday morning and fined $15 and costs.

There are still five warrants pending against Shorth, all of which were sworn to by A. L. Chamblin, representing a local secret service.

Injured in Chute Slide.

Edward Kretzler, a carpenter, 33 years of age, residing at 1521 Cass avenue, slid 25 feet down a coal chute which he was repairing at 230 North Broadway yesterday afternoon and to the City Hospital with a broken arm and sprained back. His injuries are serious.

Today Is When.

Delay Is Never A Wise Thing.

The cleanest house in St. Louis contains several billion specimens of germ life. Fortunately for the health of all of us, a large percentage of these germs are harmless. Otherwise we wouldn't be alive to talk about C-N.

A single drop of water may contain enough bacilli to kill a regiment.

But not if there was C-N in the water. C-N kills the germs of infectious diseases so quickly that they don't know what struck them. They just shrivel up and die.

Hence, dear lady, if you care for the safety and health of those you love, get C-N from any dealer and put it in every bit of water used in your house for cleaning of any sort. Just make C-N as much a part of cleaning as soap, and your house will be cleaner and sweeter and healthier than ever before.

Make C-N a household habit.

Woman's Nature

Is to love children, and no home can be completely happy without them, yet the ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass usually is so full of suffering, danger and fear that she looks forward to the critical hour with apprehension and dread. Mother's Friend, by its penetrating and soothing properties, allays nausea, nervousness, and all unpleasant feelings, and prepares the system for the ordeal that she passes through the event safely and with but little suffering, as numbers have testified and said, "it is worth its weight in gold." $1.00 per bottle of druggists. Book containing valuable information mailed free. THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Mother's Friend

It's a story of ten years' steady, natural, inevitable growth. From one store to seventy-two—not suddenly, but as fast as Regal Shoes became known, one store after another has become necessary. Fifteen new stores so far this Spring, and more coming.

The reason is the very simplest and strongest. We actually do make the best shoes in the world, and we sell them at $3.50 per pair. That is easy to say and you could pass it by as mere "words"—but you cannot brush away these seventy-two stores—22 of them in the Metropolitan district of New York, where people probably care more for style than they do anywhere else.

You cannot ignore the fact that the Regal is "The Shoe that Proves," not only in wear but before you buy it. Ninety per cent. of all other shoes sold at $3.50 have hemlock tanned soles. Regals have oak tanned soles, and we want you to know it, so we put on each sole a detachable label (the "Window of the Sole.") Lift it up and see the clear, unblackened Live-oak leather for yourself.

CANADA DISPLAYS SYLVAN PARADISE

Three Thousand Varieties of Wood Shown in Forestry Exhibit of the Dominion.

FISH OF EVERY KIND SHOWN

Game Groups Lead Realism to Appearance of Woodland Scene in Forestry Building.

It is not likely that any Canadian who visits the World's Fair will find it in his heart to complain about the representation of the forestry of his country. In the building of the Canada exhibit in the Forestry, Fish and Game building, 3000 different kinds of wood have been used, and it all grows in Canada.

But if the exhibit is notable for the great variety of woods shown, it is more notable for the far greater number of pieces of wood used in the construction of the large double arch rustic bridge with two towers, which forms the center of the display. S. Anderson, superintendent of construction of all the Canadian exhibits, directed the construction of the exhibit, but even he will not attempt to say how many thousands of pieces of wood have been used.

It required four months for eight men to build the bridge in sections at Ottawa, after the 300 different varieties of wood had been gathered.

It was possible to get so many different kinds of wood because Canada believes in the tree. There are many experimental farms, where trees brought from other countries are planted and experimented with to see if they will thrive in Canada soil. It was from these farms that most of the varieties were gathered.

No large timbers are used in the construction of the rustic bridge. Everything is in natural woods. No big piece has been used where a number of smaller pieces could be used as well. Every detail has been worked out with infinite pains with little bits of wood.

The rest of the exhibit consists of the game and fish of the country. Every kind of Canada game is there, from the great polar bear to the field mouse. The musk ox is there, the black bear, the caribou and the beaver and all the smaller animals of the region, all looking wonderfully lifelike.

The towers of the bridge are embellished with oak, moose, caribou and buffalo heads. The fish of the country are represented by mounted specimens of all varieties, including salmon, sturgeon, speckled trout, bass and pike.

The exhibit, which occupies a floor space 2 1/2 by 31 feet, is surrounded by a rustic fence of Canadian woods.

There is an exhibit of the larger timber of the country in a special building near the Canada building.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE FAIR

—By Rose Marion

"I'll take rube pie," announced a band member to a waitress at Temple Inn. She understood.

The curious persons at the next table didn't. Lidded pies tell nothing of their contents. Condition of unsatisfied curiosity remained.

The menu was consulted. "Apple, peach, pear, lemon, coconut, chocolate—nothing Reuben about them."

That's what one listener said. Her companion had begun at the far end first.

"Got it," she exclaimed, loud enough for all to hear, "rhubarb, of course."

WISCONSIN entertained the representatives of the press Thursday evening. Of course things happened.

First the lights refused to burn. It is not known if their stubbornness was due to jealousy or laziness or a grudge against folks that are said to monopolize light.

They partially changed their minds after tormenting Mrs. Walsh, the hostess, for some time and concluded to give light to one-half the building.

Secondly, "among those present" was Chief of Detective William Dwyer. The big chief employed the fun—not function—but didn't explain if he was there to protect Wisconsin from the press or the press from itself. His modesty caused him to seek a subterranean retreat early in the evening. There he drank crystal water and smelled the smoke of those who sat about him.

Thirdly, there was a challenge to a duel. It came to naught because of lack of seconds and fear that its report would be a boon to the morning papers.

HE is handsome. Also flirtatious. Besides of repartee rapid. Furthermore, curious. Each quality helps the other when occasion requires. For instance:

He stood at the door of the Information Bureau and regarded a woman whose stylish gown and pleasing face had been slightly dimmed by the afternoon's dust. There were things that she desired to know.

Thus began her query. "Is there a gentleman here?" She was not permitted to say more. He, of the qualities mentioned, his mouth was open and his tongue was clicking out, "Madame, I am a gentleman. Can I be of service to you?"

What could you expect after such a beginning? They were friends at the end of ten minutes and seemed to be properly headed towards a World's Fair romance.

LINES of lookers were going through the car exhibit in the Transportation building. Two true-blue uniformed porters were discussing dramatic art over the heads of the walking passengers.

"Huh name is Nelson."

"That so?"

"Coburn. Didn't I know huh in Kansas City. Then she wrote it N-e-l-s-o-n. She went on the stage and then she changed her name by putting a 't' in it."

"Great way that is."

And the looking line went on.

MEXICO doesn't mean to have L. some visitors. Its building seems to have been erected with thought supreme—entertainment. When the scenery photographs made in the window panes have been seen and the pictures behind which electric lights shine have been admired, there is one thing more.

That's a large-sized stationary stereo-stand high enough to meet comfortably the eyes of a person seated. Views from Mexican scenery and life are shown in the pictures which revolve by machinery.

TWO giant Century plants in bud are attracting much attention in the garden that surrounds the Mexican pavilion. Attaches of the building are kept busy naming the "Centuries" for visitors.

Added to the fact that flowering Century plants are a rarity these have a queer shape brought about by the fact that they have remained over long in the cars in which they were shipped. The buds are in the main stem at right angles and lean forward in a straight line. Handsome and surprising. True, it is a many-trunked plant. Two other Century plants are in the garden.

WOMAN TO-DAY HAS HER OWN

COMPLEXION AT HER FINGERS' ENDS

Personal Beauty

has been much written of, constantly thought of—but hitherto never really taught!

The magazines of America and Europe have published endless chapters on the subject, containing something of interest, little of scientific truth, and less of practical value to the individual.

The newspapers with their extravagant parade of omniscience have done far more to mar than make for personal comeliness.

There are but two ways for a woman to be beautiful; she must be born to it, or acquire it—and the most famous beauties of the world had no more given them by Nature than have ninety-nine women out of a hundred who fail in becoming beautiful because they do not know how to make themselves so!

Beyond all question the most notable series of papers on Personal Beauty which have ever appeared in a magazine are those by Dr. Grace Peckham Murray, now appearing in The Delineator under the title of "The Fountain of Youth."

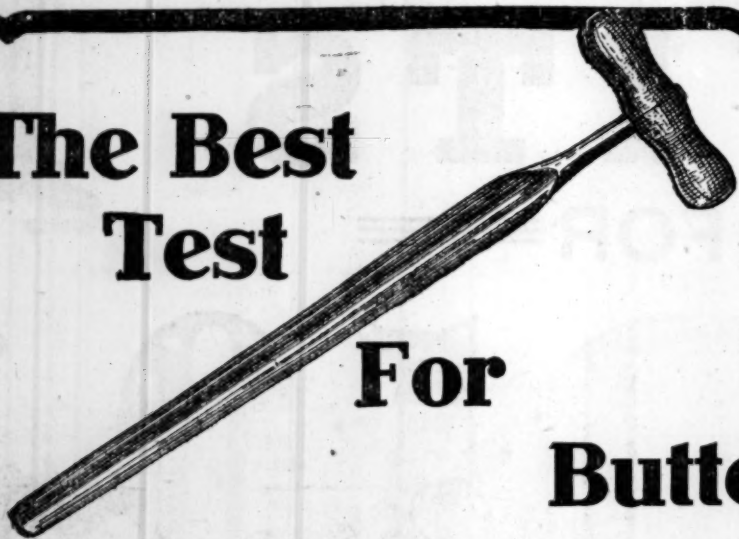

The subject this month is "The Neck and Arms," profusely illustrated with photographs from life.

No woman young or old can fail to read this series with intense interest and personal profit.

The Best Test

For Butter

The "everyday test" is the best test for butter, and only a small proportion of the butter marketed, stands it.

It is hard to maintain uniform excellence week after week, from one year's end to another.

Butter that never varies in quality, that always has the same delicious flavor, is a good brand to insist on having—when you find it. If all butter was like this, there would be no need for butter testers.

All we ask for Meadow Gold Butter, is that you taste it. As one housewife remarked "it always has a 'more-ish' taste that brings one back for another package." Ask your dealer for it. Sold only in airtight packages.

FATALLY WHIRLED BETWEEN TROLLEYS

Charles C. Coulter Escaped Dangers in Many Lands to Fall Victim in St. Louis.

WAS GOING TO MEET HIS WIFE

She Reached Union Station and After Long Search Found Him in Hospital.

Charles C. Coulter, globe trotter, mining engineer and former newspaper man, who has risked and escaped dangers in Siberia, China, Japan, Manchuria and Korea, Thursday night fell a victim to the dangerous width of St. Louis' new street cars, and is at the city hospital with three fractured ribs, internal injuries and possibly a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Coulter returned to America from northern Siberia about the first of the year and a month ago came to St. Louis. Thursday evening he started from the home of his brother, Arthur Coulter, of 506 Von Versen avenue, to Union Station to meet his wife, who was to arrive at 9 o'clock from Colorado Springs. At Twentieth and Market streets he was caught between an east bound and a west bound car.

The space between the two cars was not sufficient to admit of the safe passage of his body, and he was squeezed between them. When the cars had passed he was unconscious between the tracks and was hurled to the City Hospital.

When her husband was taken there to meet her she hurried in a cab to the home of her brother-in-law, Arthur Coulter, then started out with her own search for her husband. It was midnight before they finally learned that the accident had been hurt and was at the City Hospital. Then the wife and her brother-in-law began efforts to get another brother, Dr. Homer Coulter of Chicago, to the injured man's bedside. They went to numerous places trying to find a long-distance telephone, but it was 3 o'clock before they succeeded. Dr. Coulter was located in Peoria and came to St. Louis on the first train.

BIG FUND FOR FIGHT ON VICE

Western Society Will Take Up Work Carried on by Anthony Comstock in the East.

A movement to raise a fund of $100,000 for the perpetuation of the work undertaken by the Western Society for the Suppression of Vice, began Thursday night at a meeting held in the Second Baptist Church. Anthony Comstock, general agent for the Eastern Society, was the principal speaker at the meeting.

R. W. McAfee of St. Louis is the general agent for the West, and works with Mr. Comstock as a postoffice inspector without pay in an effort to check the spread of vicious literature. In his address Mr. Comstock referred to the 641 convictions secured by the society out of 822 arrests during the past 27 years, and said that circulars, posters and songs numbering 14,107 have been destroyed, together with 23,454 pounds of obnoxious books and pamphlets. The new officers of the Western Society are:

W. J. Breed, Cincinnati, president; H. D. Penfield, Chicago, Isaac M. Mason, St. Louis, and J. D. Hearne, Cincinnati, vice-presidents; Lawrence Poland, Cincinnati, secretary; C. McClung Thompson, St. Louis, treasurer; R. W. McAfee, St. Louis, agent.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK PROMISING.

Seasonable Weather and Crop Reports Encourage Western Buyers.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Special dispatches to the International Mercantile Agency indicate that general trade is picking up throughout the West and South. Eastern business has also been stimulated, except in the New England states, where depression incident to the rather general shutting down of cotton mills is having marked effect. Most of the improvement is ascribed to more seasonable weather and general belief in underlying conditions and prospects of good fall orders.

Territory adjacent to Omaha shows strong jobbing trade with good restocking orders and excellent demand for spring goods. Although mindful of the possible set-backs of a presidential year, merchants are buying with confidence, wholesalers reporting a normal gain compared with last season.

Farmers are generally encouraged at the outlook. Receipts of lumber at St. Louis have been large and railroads at that center report improved business during the week.

Distribution of merchandise in and about Chicago shows decided improvement. Activity is especially noted in wearing apparel and furnishing goods, although the total volume for the season is scarcely up to the 1903 record.

In the city of Chicago trade has been somewhat disturbed by politics and local merchants are displaying great caution. Labor is much more settled than a year ago. The tie-up in lake traffic has had as yet but slight influence. Building is active at Chicago. April statistics showing that plans have been taken out for 704 new buildings, costing $4,237,350. This represents a gain over one year ago of 162 buildings and $1,900,465 in estimated cost.

Winter wheat in the Southwest has been helped by more favorable weather. Too much rain in the Northwest has retarded the planting of spring wheat, and the conditions east of the Mississippi river indicate serious damage in the Ohio valley district, where only half the acreage yield is looked for. Loss of acreage shown in the government report is neither surprising nor unusual. It may still be reclaimed if the weather continues good.

The St. Paul district reports larger spring wheat acreage than usual.

Outlook in the iron industry is still modified by the attitude of the railroads which will not buy under present conditions. One western system is said to have held back an order for 10,000 cars until after election. Pittsburgh reports nothing encouraging in the demand for structural material and plates. Seasonable hardware is, however, in active demand. The situation is much complicated by the disruption of the ore pool and the generally unsatisfactory tone of the market.

A Marvelous Service.

Going East by the New York Central Lines, you have the choice of 3 trains a day from Chicago, 3 trains a day from St. Louis, and 5 trains a day from Cincinnati.

You will remember that this is the line via Niagara Falls, and the route of the "Fast Mail," "Lake Shore Limited," "Twentieth Century Limited," and the "Knickerbocker Special."

False Certificate Charged.

Capt. Patrick Tierney, master of the towboat Exporter, was arrested Thursday night on a charge of giving false master's certificate to Howard Carleton for admission to the Marine Hospital. It is charged that Carleton had not been employed on the boat for a sufficient length of time to admit him to the privileges of the hospital. Capt. Tierney is held under bond of $500.

INDIANA GIVES HER 30 VOTES TO PARKER

Hearst Forces Outvoted Three to One,
Instructions Given and Unit Rule Applied Without the Suspicion of an Attempt at Gage Rule.

TAGGART CHEWS GUM AS HIS PLANS ARE ENACTED.

Convention Ruled With Rod of Iron
by Chairman Smith, Despite Pandemonium by the Hearst Contingent—Taggart Suggested for National Chairman.

BY SAMUEL G. BLYTHE,
Staff Correspondent New York World and Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 12.—Thomas
Taggart knew what he was talking about when on Tuesday night he sent his message to the Democrats of the country through the Post-Dispatch, that the state convention would instruct for Judge Parker and apply the unit rule, and that William R. Hearst would not have a voting delegate from Indiana to the Democratic national convention.

Taggart sat conspicuously on the steps leading to the stage in Tomlinson Hall and saw a great majority of the 154 delegates do exactly what he had planned. By a vote of 94 to 52 Parker instructions were made and the unit rule was applied, and, further, Taggart was endorsed for national committeeman from the state and set forth as a "suitable man" for the Democratic national chairmanship.

These figures do not represent Taggart's real strength in the convention. That was shown on the first test vote, which was announced as 108 to 46 for Taggart's slate for the officers of the convention and 42 to 6 for the Hearst slate. There were delegates who did not want to vote for instructions unless they had to, and Taggart let them off.

The Hearst people were willing to sacrifice their presidential candidate to prevent instructions. They started a backfire for Mayor McClellan of New York for president and for Joseph W. Folk of Missouri for vice-president. A burly lawyer from Bloomington, John R. East, big, red-faced, gray-whiskered and with a voice like the bellow of a bull of Bashan, got the platform after repeated efforts and said:

"It may not be Parker, but if it is, I'm for him. If it is Hearst, I'm for him, and if it is George B. McClellan, I'm for him."
At the mention of McClellan's name every Hearst delegate in the hall rose and yelled frantically. East saw his advantage and continued:

"I fought under his father, and I cast my first vote for him," and then the Hearst delegates yelled again.
Later, when Low V. Urey of Fort Wayne was making his impassioned plea against instructions he followed in the lead of East.
"Sixty days is a long time," he said.
"Hearst may not be the candidate. Parker may not be the candidate. The ticket may be McClellan and Folk," and there was more cheering.

John W. Kern, who spoke for instructions, saw through the Hearst orator's game and said coldly:

"I have seen many amusing things in Democratic conventions in Indiana, but one of the most amusing of them all was to see the delegates sent here to support William R. Hearst cheering for George B. McClellan."
At that the McClellan demonstration was the greatest of the day. Delegates got up and waved handkerchiefs and hats and shouted wildly. Meantime Taggart sat on the steps leading to the stage, chewed gum, and said: "The boys will have their fun."
Hearst had some boomers in the galleries, but they didn't do much booming. There was no chance. Alanzo Green Smith, selected by Taggart for chairman because of his bulldog courage, had the convention in hand from the moment he whacked the

STERILITY

How shall a mother who is weak and sick with some female trouble bear healthy children?
How anxious women ought to be to give their children the blessing of a good constitution!
Many women long for a child to bless their home, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs, they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the parts, curing all displacements and inflammation.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all expectant or would-be mothers. The medicine that instantly asserts its curative powers in the ills of women is Read these Two Remarkable Cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—During the early part of my married life I was very delicate in health. I had two miscarriages, and both my husband and I felt very badly as we were anxious to have children. A neighbor who had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it, and I decided to do so. I soon felt that my appetite was in-creasing, the headaches gradually decreased and finally disappeared, and my general health improved. I felt as if new blood coursed through my veins, the sluggish tired feeling disappeared, and I became strong and well. "With" a year after I became the mother of a strong healthy child, the joy of my home. You certainly have a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman knew of it. Sincerely yours, Mrs. Anna Forts, 510 Park Ave., Chicago, Ill., Ark."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for five years, and gave birth to two premature children. After that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it changed me from a weak, nervous woman to a strong, happy and healthy wife within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, which is the pride and joy of our home-hold. If every woman who is cured feels as grateful and happy as I do, you must have a host of friends, for every day I bless you for the light, health and happiness your Vegetable Compound has brought to my home. FOLK'S UNOPOSED LEADERSHIP.

The withdrawal of Mayor Reed of Kansas City from the gubernatorial contest removes the last vestige of opposition to Circuit Attorney Folk and leaves him a clear field. The convention will be a ratification meeting.

Mayor Reed is to be congratulated upon the good temper he displayed in his manner of withdrawing, and upon his manly attitude towards his own disappointment and his victorious opponent. His political record and official work entitled him to a better fate than to be the apparent sharer of the downfall of the Democratic state machine. In two offices he performed excellent public service for Kansas City. His work for the public, especially his admirable and successful struggle for the taxation of franchise corporations made him deserving of a hearing on his merits, but the extraordinary situation—the logic of events—forced him into a position of hostility to Folk and gave him the appearance, at least, of making common cause with the machine leaders. Under the circumstances his task was impossible; the result was inevitable.

Reed's withdrawal clothes Folk with the full power and responsibility of the unopposed leader of his party. What will he do with the power and responsibility? His is the great task of directing his party and of shaping the state's government.

What is Mr. Folk's attitude towards the efforts of some of his friends to compromise with the machine and the schemes of machine leaders and party organs to harmonize the reform and the corrupt forces of the party? Will he accept a tainted ticket and a compromise platform?

Mr. Folk's victory has been won by fighting the machine and all its corrupt allies and forces. To yield to these forces now would sacrifice the fruits of victory.

It has been said that Missouri is more nearly an all-American commonwealth than any other state in the Union. In this World's Fair period it may be well to recall, also, what Mr. Walbridge once said of St. Louis. "Located upon the borderland of every section, her pulse beats in harmony with all. In the chorus of the nation she needs not to modulate her voice, for its natural tone is keyed to harmonize with the voice of North and South, East and West."

HER GOOD POINTS.

The Rev. George W. Brownback of Reading, Pa., has married a wife after his own heart. The inventory of her good points, much like that of a horse, published in the Post-Dispatch of Thursday, goes to show that the reverend man has a prize. The owner of a blue-ribbon Alderney cannot be prouder than Rev. G. W. Brownback ought to be of his acquisition in the matrimonial market.

It would be interesting to know if the lady is as well satisfied as her husband. She is described as a good cook, obedient to her husband, averse to gossip, having the proper amount of piety and wearing a smile that won't come off. All this is gratifying, but what does this reverend man offer in exchange for such virtues?

It may be hoped that Rev. George W. Brownback has caught a Tartar. A man who will tell of his search for a wife and how he found her, and publish her good points as if she were a mule or a draft horse deserves a life of unalloyed dismay. Let us hope she is "fickle, false and full of fraud."

The Japanese and Russians have bought $40,000,000 worth of munitions and supplies in this country since the war began. Good! War is good for trade. We sell guns with which the two fighters kill each other. We have the profit, they have the glory. Wise we. But suppose we should be approached by a respectable-looking individual and asked to sell him some poison with which to kill his dearest foe? Wouldn't that jar us? And yet, what's the difference? Killing is bad business—but then it's good business.

A GREAT NAVAL PROGRAM.

The bill passed by the Fifty-eighth Congress for the support, increase and maintenance of the navy carries an appropriation of $67,000,000.

The naval program contemplates a force of 48 battleships and 24 armored cruisers. As a beginning, 25 battleships have been authorized and 12 armored cruisers.

Senator Hale estimates that to bring the navy to the strength agreed upon, and maintain it in a condition of efficiency, will entail an annual appropriation of $200,000,000.

More than $700,000,000 have been put into the navy in the last 21 years and to complete the ships authorized by Congress will bring the amount up to about one billion dollars.

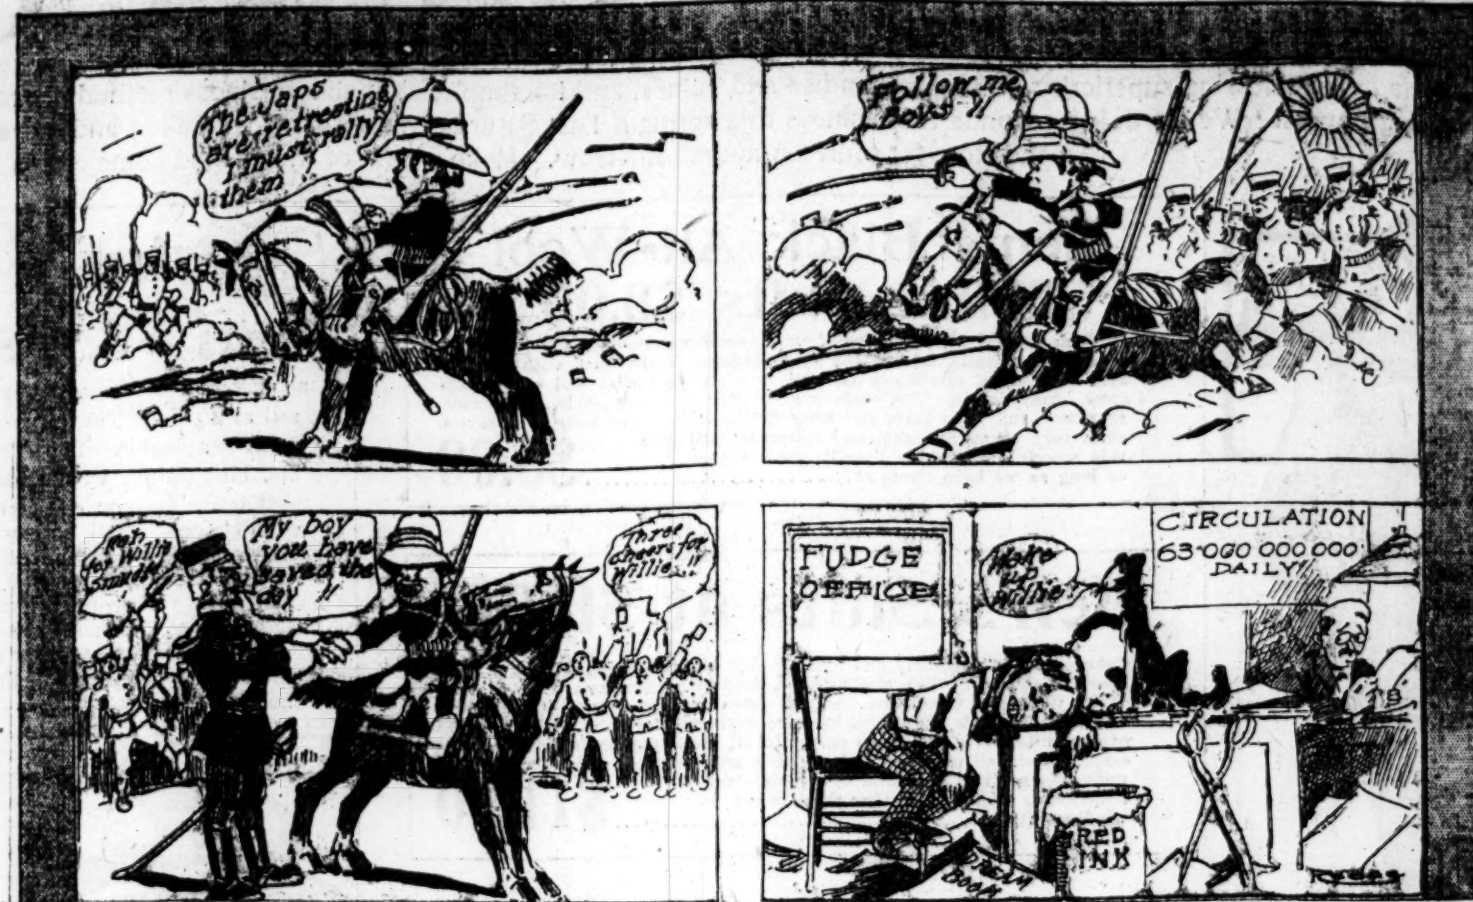

When we began building up a sea power, defense was the object. Aggression was not dreamed of. Hence the program was modest, stopping at fifth or sixth rank among the navies of the world. But soon it was said that we must surpass Germany because Germany had designs on South America. Then it was found wise to aspire to second place and today it is argued—some quarters that the American navy must rival or exceed the sea power of Great Britain.

Senator Lodge is on the subject that "No part of a nation which like ours is unarmed and undefended."

This is sound. The American navy must be aggressive. But are we signs of conquest? Will we be self-

THE OUT-OF-TOWN CORRESPONDENT

BY REUBEN JASPER,
Special World's Fair Correspondent.

To the Editor of the Hayville Herald.
ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Last night I went into a saloon—a thing I wouldn't dare do in Hayville, where everybody knows me, but when you come to a city you've got to be a sport; everybody in a big city is a sport, of course, for they haven't got a thing but money—well, I went into a saloon, as I said, and the first thing I knew I was taking a drink with a young fellow I had never seen before.
We just sort of fell into each other's company, and by the time we had had a couple of drinks he pulled a look out of his pocket and said:
"Here's the look to my coalshed. It's locked and I can't open it, and I am very anxious about it, because I've still got about 500 bushels of hard coal in my shed, and I'm afraid somebody will pinch it on me this summer. Do you suppose you could open it for me?"
The thing looked simple enough and I tried it. I couldn't do it the first trial, but I kept on working at it. Finally he laughed and said:

MR. JASPER TURNS DOWN D. R. F.
(Reproduced from the Hayville Herald.)

"I'll bet you $5 you can't open it. I know you ain't any smarter than I am."

Well, I couldn't take no bluff like that, so I says: "Well, I'll just bet you $10 that I can."

"I'll take you," he says, and we both put up. Well, I'll just ask the printer to put a few stars here, for my heart fails me when I attempt to tell of the end and finish of my ten-spot, and of how hard I hit the side-walk when I made a protest against the way I was being robbed. I want you to warn every man, woman and child in Hayville, Hay County, to keep away from the house where they come to St. Louis, for some of these sharpers have got a high-way robber beat to a whisper when it comes to taking a man's money away from him.

I couldn't sleep much after going through with that experience, for I tell you right now, and you know it, that $10 ain't to be picked up every day in Hayville, but any way I was determined to go to the Fair again today, for there are still many things out there that I want to take a sassy rap at before I float gently back to the somnolent atmosphere of Hayville, Hay County.

The first thing I done was to go out to the Administration building and look up Dave Francis, the boss of the whole works, for I just naturally wanted to make him feel small for the way he treated me by not answering my letter when I wrote and asked him where I could get a good room for six bits or a dollar a day.

I walked into his office and just as soon as I told him who I was he rose up, grabbed my hand and hailed me like a long-lost brother.

There was my chance—the very chance I had been looking for—and you bet I made the most of it. I was determined to freese him clean to the gizzard. He was free, all right, and I hurt him mighty.

He was aggressive. But are we signs of conquest? Will we be self-

Love-Making of the Future

When a young man was asked recently why he married clandestinely instead of following the usual procedure, there being no parental or other objection to his suit, his reply seems fraught with significance to the future course of love-making: "I could not afford the time to work up to the climax," he explained. "My business compelled me to get through with it. Here surely it is a pretty, nay, an alarming situation, to which one may respectfully call the attention of our poets and novelists; for if Cupid is to discard his bow and arrows for a magazine rifle and work 'on the jump' like the rest of us, clearly the love story of the future is going to be very different to that of time past. We find ourselves, in fact, confronted by conditions in which there would appear to be an elimination of much heretofore regarded as indispensable to the proper setting of a romance. The young man with 'no time to work up to the climax" on account of pressure of business, suddenly leaps upon the stage as a character familiar in other roles, but decidedly new as the hero of a love story. Somehow one feels that it will be difficult to introduce the mocking bird and whippoorwill into any kind of relations with the youthful, practical and intensely preoccupied junior partner in a brokerage house. Even if one could beguile him to run down to some country spot for a 'week end,' how to induce him to stroll by the brookside with the heroine, instead of looking over the situation with an eye combining entirely material interests, is likely to be a problem. Indeed, he bids fair to be a creature of such impulsive action in all things, that we will no sooner have got him on bended knee at the opening of Chapter VI, than to find he suddenly recollects the danger of some one grasping a controlling interest in something, and is off to the telephone—Michael White, in the May Critic.

Customs Tariff of Cuba.

Amerman & Patterson's Hand Book to the Customs Tariff of the Republic of Cuba has just been published. This handbook was compiled and revised by Walter A. Donaldson, counselor-at-law, formerly Collector of Customs in Cuba, assisted by Senator Don Manuel Despaigne, Special Deputy Collector of Customs, Havana, and Senator Don Octavio de Sayas, Consul General of Cuba to the United States. It is up-to-date, being in accord with the most recent conventions and decrees. The book is printed in English and Spanish in large, clear type and will be found invaluable to all merchants who have any dealings with the new republic. It is possible, also, that the exhibitors from Cuba, Mexico and the Central American countries at the World's Fair will find the book of great use.

Lilacs.
When the lilacs are in bloom
And their delicate perfume
Gratifies the eager senses like a draught
Of rare old wine.
Who could not be happy then,
When the spring is come again
And the breath of morning glories for the moment seems divine?
When the lilacs are in bloom
And the sunshine in the room Seems a flood of vernal splendor, and the birds a-mating sing,
Who does not feel in his heart
Strains beyond the reach of art,
Which from Nature's tender beauty like a silvery fountain spring?
When the lilacs are in bloom,
In the heart there is no room
For petty hatreds and the sins so baneful

For Nature bids us smile
And roam with her the while,
And gratefully we yield ourselves unto her

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

PAY CITY EMPLOYEES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am the wife of one of the City Hall clerks, and I want to state that I think it a disgrace to the city of St. Louis to hold up the appropriation bill. Most of the men employed in the offices in the Hall are married men and make barely their living expenses. A landlord continually kicking for rent, and a butcher refusing to credit you. This is enough to drive a man crazy. Holding back the men's salaries ruins their reputations. WIFE OF A VICTIM.

GOOD FOR SICK PARROTS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Remedy for parrots which have fits: Drench them with cold water, especially on the head. When subject to frequent fits, administer a little spirits of niter, put half a dozen drops on their soft food every day. Give plenty of fruit, fresh air and water and clean sand. Mrs. C. T. F.
Des Moines, Io.

REMEDY FOR SICK PARROTS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In answer to "Subscriber," whose parrot has fits, I would suggest that it be given something soft and soothing to eat—mashed potatoes, bananas, white bread, etc., mixed with a little glycerine, once a day, and in cool weather stand its feet in warm water for a few minutes daily to promote proper circulation. A healthful diet is all that is necessary; the bird ought not to be encouraged to talk too much, thereby overdoing its capacity and weakening itself.

POOR CAR SERVICE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
We had good service on the Easton avenue line up to the opening of the Fair. Since then the cars, instead of turning at Wellington, go straight through to the Fair Grounds. I would like to ask what effort has been made to equalize the additional territory? The "glassy stare" of the motorman, as he "whizzes" by is becoming quite common these days. H. W. K.

NOT A LAUGHING MATTER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I noticed in your paper quite a few people praising the St. Louis Transit Co. for its service to and from the World's Fair. This I know does not include the Easton avenue line, for the people who are compelled to use this line only see a car every hour, and when they do, the car will not stop; but the conductor gives you the laugh, for a few minutes daily to promote proper circulation. A healthful diet is all that is necessary; the bird ought not to be encouraged to talk too much, thereby overdoing its capacity and weakening itself.

UNPAID CITY EMPLOYEES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
What object or purpose is being served by the two houses of the city government "holding up" the appropriation with which to pay the army of subordinates at the City Hall? This hardship and injustice is imposed upon the rank and file, the small salaried of the city, by the great hardbodies and incompetents. There is no question for the majority are poor men dependent on their pay for the maintenance of themselves and their families. This is felt by them in many ways, for instance, it is a well-known fact that it is these occurrences that put the city's employees at the mercy of the city. The city's employees become necessary for the poor devil to try and anticipate his salary he finds that only the most unaccountable will advance him a cent and that at the usurious rate of 10 per cent per month, which, of course, is a downright robbery; but he cannot help himself and is fortunate to get anything even at that rate. In this due to Democratic mismanagement, or is it due to a feeling, on the part of the council, similar to that expressed by the policeman, who after making an unprovoked arrest, chided his prisoner over the head remarking, "I do not hate you because I hate you, but just to show me 'orticity' over you!"

TERMINAL FACILITIES, HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I wish to thank you for the light you are making for the city of St. Louis against the Terminal Railroad combine. You can get plenty of ammunition by having your correspondents and what the railroads entering such cities as Pittsburgh, Chicago, Washington, Kansas City, New Orleans and Cincinnati paid out for terminals. The Wabash I understand is spending about $12,000,000 in the city of Pittsburgh, Pa., for a depot, and for the bridges that it is erected over the river there. It has cost it all to get into Pittsburgh $30,000,000. It had to tunnel through mountains for about two miles before it could get into Pittsburgh. It is one of the most expensive roads in the world. It is only one instance; you will find that other railroads (without forming any terminal combine) spend to get in other cities just as much as the Wabash is spending to get in Pittsburgh. The amount of money the Wabash is spending to get into Pittsburgh is undoubtedly as much as all the railroads together entering St. Louis have spent in our city for terminals. It is about time St. Louis have done something to red rid of the terminal combine, and not wait until nearly all of our manufacturers move over the river. I have visited nearly all of the large cities in this country and to see the St. Louisian have built a St. Louisian with a depot for the terminals in his own city. It is true we have been given a grand railroad station, but we are paying for it very dear in bridge and switching charges.

MORGAN AND BRIDE DEPART

New Yorker Leaves for Japan to Make His Home Among His Wife's People.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Yuki Kato, the bright-eyed Japanese bride of George D. Morgan, nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, were mourning when she went to the dock to take steamship on her homeward journey. But more conspicuous was her cheery colored face, which indicated her pleasure at again returning to the land of her fathers.

Mrs. Morgan's visit to her husband's family has not been one of continual round of pleasure, as she could not help noting at times that she was being ignored. There was, then, some surprise manifested that she should wear the dark colored garments that indicated sorrow at leaving this country.

None of her husband's family accompanied them to the Deutschland to see them off, but the bride was probably content, as her husband's affection has been her one refuge from slight.

Costs Much More To Live Now. CARROLL D. WRIGHT Shows the Heavy Increase in Price of Commodities in 1903.

THIRTEEN YEARS RECORD. Food, Clothing, Fuel, Lighting, Drugs, House Furnishings and Other Things Advance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, May 10.—Col. Carroll D. Wright, the commissioner of the bureau of the department of commerce and labor, who is one of the recognized statisticians of the world, has undertaken in a bulletin which has just been issued to throw light on the question of the increased cost of living in 1903 over the preceding 12 years.

Col. Wright has made his comparisons with wholesale figures, since they are regarded as a more substantial basis, and his report includes 260 series of quotations covering farm products, food, clothes and clothing, fuel and lighting, metals and implements, lumber and building materials, drugs and chemicals, house furnishings and miscellaneous.

In explaining why he has taken wholesale and not retail prices Col. Wright says: "Wholesale prices have invariably been used for the purpose of showing changes in the general price level. They are more sensitive than retail prices and more quickly reflect changes in conditions. Retail prices usually follow the wholesale, but not generally in the same proportion."

The first table shows that the average relative price of all commodities were higher in 1903 than at any time since and including 1890. Farm products reached the lowest average in 1903 and the highest in 1902. Clothes and clothing were lowest in 1903 and highest in 1902. Fuel and lighting were lowest in 1903 and highest in 1902. Metals and implements were lowest in 1903 and highest in 1902.

Raw commodities and manufactured commodities have been separated for further examination. In the group designated as "raw" are included all farm products, beans, coffee, eggs, milk, rice, nutmegs, pepper, tea, vegetables, raw silk, wool, coal, crude petroleum, copper ingots, pig iron, pig iron, bar silver, spelter, tin, brimstone, jute and rubber, a total of 50 articles.

The average price of all these commodities during January and February, 1903, was 33 per cent above the average price for the preceding 10 years, and the average price for the year was 27 per cent higher than for the same period.

Coffee Costs Much Less. Manufactured commodities advanced to a level only exceeded in the year 1890. They were higher by 2.5 per cent than in 1897, by 11 per cent than in 1899, and about 1 per cent higher than in 1902.

The statistics show a decrease in the price of beef from 1902, but the relative price compared with the period since 1890 shows an increase in cattle of 47 per cent. The average price of beef was 10 per cent higher in 1903 than in 1902.

On thirty-five of these there is an increase over the average for the preceding thirteen years, ranging from 3 per cent on bread, in the Washington market, to 72 per cent on pepper from Singapore. The average price of coffee was 10 per cent higher in 1903 than in 1902.

SUES MILLIONAIRE FOR SCHATCHEN FEE

Broker Seeks Commission for Wedding That Was Arranged While He Was Seeking Bride.

EASTON, May 10.—Wealthy Mrs. Charles C. Parsons, who before her marriage was Prof. Julia T. King, recognized by many critics as one of the foremost of women orators, is awaiting interestedly the decision of Judge Lemuel L. Holmes will make this week on a strange suit for commission.

Her father-in-law, the Rev. John Parsons, the aged Brookline millionaire, is sued for $5000 alleged to be due W. S. Henry, Jr., of the brokerage firm of W. S. Henry & Co., as commission for trying to find a suitable wife for young Mr. Parsons.

Mr. Henry alleges that the elder Mr. Parsons asked him to find a suitable wife for his son, offering to pay all expenses and a handsome fee. Mr. Henry says he spent much time and money at the task, corresponding frequently with Mr. Parsons, the father, in Europe. Before he had chosen a partner for the suit he was the man, who knew nothing about the beautiful Prof. King and married her.

Miss King was of the faculty of the Emerson School, in this city, and was the representative of the United States at the International Congress held at Paris during the World's Fair.

Broker Henry says he was a close friend of the elder Mr. Parsons when he undertook the commission, and that he was a business partner of him and his sons. Refusal to become estranged, and Mr. Henry had a receiver appointed to get the partnership dissolved, and the suit for commission followed.
